Judge's Statement

Choosing awards for any art exhibition never gets easier. While every judge approaches this with somewhat different criteria, there are often similarities.

I take in consideration many factors: craftsmanship, technique, individual expression, and unique individual qualities that draw me back to the piece for a second or third look.

Still, art is never simply about realistic representation and fine craft. Personal expression and use of the medium also draw a viewer in.

The artists in this show should be proud of the work they created.

Judging this show was a pleasant experience.
